MR. AND MRS. D. D. FITCH LEAVE FOR PORTO RICO

ELDER FITCH, WHO HAS HAD THRILLING EXPERIENCES AS A MISSIONARY OF THE SEVENTH DAY ADVENTIST CHURCH, WITH HIS WIFE, A GRADUATE NURSE AND EXPERIENCED STENOGRAPHER, TAKE UP NEW WORK

Mrs. D. D. Fitch, a well-known resident of Glendale, left Wednesday night for Porto Rico. Elder and Mrs. Fitch are to take up work there as missionaries of the Seventh Day Adventist denomination. Mrs. Fitch will stop in New Mexico to visit friends and Elder Fitch, with his mother, will leave Glendale in a few days to join her. Mrs. Fitch is an experienced stenographer, besides being a graduate nurse, and will take the position of secretary and treasurer of the West Indian mission field. Elder Fitch recently was ordained to the gospel ministry and has done excellent work in Southern California.

The cannibal islands of the South Pacific and the war-torn cities of Mexico were visited by Elder Fitch in his younger years, so that in going with his wife and mother as missionaries to Porto Rico for the Seventh Day Adventists he is not entering work which to him is wholly untried. His experiences while a sailor aboard the mission ship Pitcairn are most interesting. This vessel was owned formerly by the Seventh Day Adventists, who used it for missionary voyages. The inhabitants of the entire island of Pitcairn keep Saturday as the Sabbath.

C. H. Jones of Mountain View, at present manager of the Pacific Press Publishing association, was chairman of the committee appointed by the Adventists to secure and send out the vessel Pitcairn. This was made necessary because of the great difficulty in securing transportation to the island. Mr. Fitch sailed as a member of the crew on the Pitcairn's last voyage and was on the ship about a year.

Pitcairn island's history is most interesting. The ship Bounty was sent out about 150 years ago by the English government to the Society Islands to transport bread-fruit to the West Indies. The most of the crew objected to leaving the islands, and when compelled by the captain and crew to do so, went a short distance with the ship and then set the captain and the loyal members of his crew adrift in small boats. The mutineers returned to the Society Islands. The captain and his followers eventually reached the South American coast.

The mutineers continued for some time to revel in the license of the islands, but realizing that eventually they would be caught and punished, they prepared a feast aboard the ship Bounty, and while the native women who afterward became their wives were below enjoying the eatables, set sail for Pitcairn, an uncharted island of which they had learned. Arriving there and finding no harbor, they stripped the vessel, taking ashore in small boats all that was possible, and then burned the ship.

Nineteen years passed before they were discovered. Dissipation by partaking of liquor manufactured in a still of their own construction led to the death of all but one of the mutineers, and he came to realize that the future of the rising generation depended solely upon his energies. He determined, therefore, to teach those on the island with him to read and write. For this purpose he had only an English prayer book and a Bible; these having been taken ashore from the ship's cabin. With these he was carrying on his work when a British man-of-war, sent out by the government to punish the mutineers, arrived. The captain, seeing the efforts put forth by Mr. Adams, returned to the vessel without him, reporting that the old gentleman was too feeble to be taken off the island.

Mr. Fitch spent a portion of a week on this island, and while there photographed the tombstone of Mr. Adams and talked with his descendants. These are a mixture of Kanaka and English. Telling of Seventh Day Adventist missionary efforts for these people, Mr. Fitch said:

"The Seventh Day Adventists became associated with the people of Pitcairn island through the efforts of John I. Tay, a ship missionary of San Francisco, who, having heard of the island, conceived the idea of visiting it. He was heartily received upon his arrival there and the Adventist literature was widely read. The whole island, with few exceptions, became Seventh Day Adventists.

"Mr. Tay returned to the United States and the Adventists sent out Elder Cudney to baptize the candidates and organize a church. Failing to find transportation in San Francisco, he went to Honolulu, and again failing, chartered a vessel and started on his mission. He was never heard from and it is supposed he lost his life at sea.

"Later the Adventists built the vessel named the Pitcairn, which started for the Pitcairn island and accomplished the object planned. This vessel also visited many other islands of the South Seas, furnishing transportation to missionaries and provisions for them. On our last voyage we visited, besides Pitcairn, Fiji, Tonga, the New Hebrides, the Banks islands, the Society islands and the Samoan islands.

"Natives of the Pitcairn islands are still loyal to the Seventh Day Adventist faith and at last reports were carrying on aggressive school work. It is difficult to communicate with them, however, as the island is not in the lane of any ocean-going steamers and is visited only occasionally. Often it is two years before a letter reaches its destination.

"About fifty years ago a drought occurred on the island and the English government transferred the islanders to the Norfolk islands, a garden spot of the Pacific. But they soon became homesick for their native isle and returned on a chartered vessel. One of the natives had purchased land in the Norfolk islands and left Pitcairn on a passing ship to dispose of this land. Return passage to Pitcairn island was assured him by the captain of the vessel. But when returning, they found themselves to the windward side of Pitcairn, and the captain refused to stop, taking him to San Francisco. He took passage on another ship, hoping to reach the island, but this ship also passed to the windward, and took him to Liverpool. There Mr. Young found a vessel sailing for San Francisco, upon which he could work his passage, but once again the island was passed, and it was two and a half years after he left the place before he finally reached home.

"A peculiarity of this island is that it contains no naturally level spot sufficiently large for building purposes. It is two miles wide and three miles long. Its inhabitants are subjects of the English government, and grow no wheat or corn, depending for these upon the occasional visits of passing ships. For these staples they trade the fruits of the island and the flesh of the goats which roam the steep hillsides.

"The natives seem to be quite as much at home in the water as upon the land, occasionally swimming around the island, and having but little fear of the sharks. They dive into the water with a knife between their teeth, or with two rocks which they pound together, and take as much sport in pursuing sharks and killing them as Americans do in hunting bears and other wild animals."

Mr. Fitch passed through some thrilling experiences, during which the vessel was nearly shipwrecked, but some of the most stirring were visits to the cannibal islands. To go unarmed into the interior of the island on a visit to the native village, while one of these human man eaters acts as your guide, and a troop of them follows at your heels, does not bring the pleasantest of feelings Mr. Fitch says.

OPECHEE WAY BRIDGE

The Opechee way bridge across the wash in the Glendale Heights section of Glendale is almost completed, and it will be well worth the time of any citizen of Glendale to visit this place and see the substantial character of the work. There are much needed improvements being made in the wash, both above and below the bridge. The bridge and these improvements are put in at the expense of the property owners, the Los Angeles and Arizona Land company being the owners of probably 80 per cent of the property assessed. The contractors are doing the work under the inspection of the city engineer, Edw. M. Lynch.

CONDITION COLORADO STREET

Colorado street in the eastern part of Glendale is in bad condition and should be repaired immediately. There are furrows running lengthwise on the road like plow furrows and serious accidents are apt to happen if the street is not put in proper shape. There is more travel over this street than there is over any other street in Glendale, which adds to the importance of improving the street. There is talk of beautifying the parking on either side of the street, all of which should be encouraged, but a safe road on which to drive is of great importance.

FOR GLENDALE COMMUNITY

The Glendale Evening News stands for the best interests of the Glendale community all the time. We wish other cities success in every particular, but Glendale and the close adjoining territory must have the first attention of the Evening News.

TROPICO SISTERHOOD GUESTS OF CHAPTER L—THE D. A. R. MEETING

CHAPTER "L" ENTERTAINS

Chapter "L" P. E. O. met on Wednesday with Mrs. Anna Randolph of 865 Glendale avenue. There was the regular business meeting in the forenoon which took up the time until noon. At one o'clock luncheon was served and the guests of the Chapter were members of Chapter "A. H." of Tropico; also Mrs. Hulda Miller of Chapter "E" of Los Angeles and Miss Mather of Chapter "J" of Riverside. The guests remained for the program in the afternoon which was in charge of Mrs. J. G. Hunchberger.

Mrs. Hunchberger gave a little talk on "P. E. O. Ideals"; Miss Mather played two very beautiful piano solos; Mrs. Bullis of Tropico read a letter from Mrs. E. F. Tholen about the recent trip she and Dr. Tholen had taken to England. Mrs. Wm. Mabry read a paper, telling of London just at the beginning of the war. This was taken from an English magazine and was very interesting.

It was decided to do away with the next regular meeting this month, in order that as many of the chapter as possible might attend the State convention at Alhambra on the 28th of April, at which time Miss Byram will receive her certificate of recognition.

DISPLAY HEIRLOOMS

The General Richard Gridley chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, held a most interesting meeting on Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. W. A. Chapman, 218 El Bonito avenue. The program of the afternoon was unusually interesting. Mrs. Wayland Brown gave two delightful readings and Mrs. Wm. Herman West sang. There was also a violin solo by Mrs. Edgar Ayers, which was much appreciated.

The rooms were decked for the occasion with many Cecil Brunner and pink Cochet roses, and Mrs. Chapman displayed several heirlooms which had been in her family for years, among them some brass candle sticks and a very old teapot. There were a number of special guests present, among them a friend of Mrs. Chapman's who had been regent of one of the Kansas chapters, and who told of the work of marking the old trail of the forty-niners in her part of the country.

A special meeting of the chapter has been called for next Wednesday, when the ladies are to sew for the babies of the maternity cottage in Los Angeles, which this chapter cares for. This meeting is called by the sewing committee and will be at the home of Mrs. Wm. Rathbun of 1457 Sycamore avenue.

MRS. SMITH ILL

Word has been received that Mrs. H. P. Smith of Berkeley is seriously ill at a hospital in that city. Mrs. Smith is a sister of Mrs. E. U. Emery and Mrs. A. L. Bryant of Glendale. She was formerly a resident of this city and was at one time the president of Chapter L, P. E. O. She has many friends in this city who will be sorry to hear of her illness.

SUCKERS AND HAWKEYES AT EXPOSITION

SAN DIEGO, April 15.—The celebration of Iowa and Illinois state days at the San Diego exposition April 21 and 22 is expected to draw a big crowd of people from all points in Southern California, since former residents of these states now residing in the Southland are co-operating with the exposition to make these two days among the best of the special days held at the exposition.

C. H. Parsons, secretary of the Federation of State Societies in Los Angeles has just conferred with exposition officials regarding details. These are being worked out by Mr. Parsons and Judge Thomas J. Haynes of San Diego. Judge Haynes is an active worker in state societies and is the father of California Newspaper Day.

The Iowa and Illinois societies of Los Angeles are arranging for a special train while societies of the states in other cities are taking up the questions of transportation. Telegrams have been sent to prominent people in Iowa and Illinois asking them to be present. A program of special interest to people of these states is being prepared. On these two days there will be many visitors from Iowa and Illinois and former residents of those states here and opportunity will be afforded of meeting old friends from back East.

It is very apparent that Japan is not at all modest in its demands upon China.

TROPICO ITEMS

KENSINGTON CLUB IS ENTERTAINED AT HOME OF MRS. BOOTH

A most delightful afternoon was enjoyed Wednesday when as guests of Mrs. Francis Booth the Kensington club met at her charming home on Gardena avenue for the regular semi-monthly meeting of the club. Baskets of golden hued poppies and bowls of crimson roses brightened the rooms wherein the guests were assembled. Two silk flags were crossed over the threshold at the entrance to Mrs. Booth's home. Dainty bits of art needlework and merry conversation were enjoyed, after which dainty refreshments were then served. Mrs. Booth was assisted in entertaining by Mrs. Margaret Jenkins, president of the Kensington; Mrs. George W. Sanford and Mrs. Charles H. Henry. Forty or more ladies were present. The next meeting of the club will be held at the home of Mrs. Jessie Hudson, 1224 Milford street, Glendale.

Mrs. Charles L. Peckham and son Vassar of Glendale were the guests at luncheon of Mrs. Edward H. Weston Wednesday.

Mrs. E. V. Lawton of 417 Gardena avenue with her sister, Miss Mansfield, Mrs. Fryer and little Birdie Richardson are spending the day with Mrs. Charles Findley of Hermosa Beach to day.

Mrs. L. C. Rice, who is sojourning at Venice, returned to her Tropico home this morning to attend the meeting of the Tropico Thursday Afternoon club and hear the renowned Dr. Kate Waller Barrett.

Mrs. Ernest J. Morgan and son, Eric Morgan, have decided to remain in Tropico until about the last of the month before going to El Centro, where they will reside. Mr. Morgan leaves for Imperial valley Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward H. Weston entertained at dinner Sunday at their home on West Park avenue, when their guests were Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Thomas of Los Angeles. Mr. Thomas is of the Los Angeles Herald editorial staff.

NORTH GLENDALE

Mr. A. G. Williams of 1690 Stocker street has returned to San Francisco where he is manager for the Eiler Music company, after spending a fortnight with his family.

Mr. George H. Marsh of 1645 Ruth street, who is one of the Southern Pacific train dispatchers in Los Angeles, is enjoying his annual vacation of two weeks.

Mrs. G. Trepanier of 1014 Stocker street was a Los Angeles visitor on Wednesday, where she was the guest of friends.

Miss Ruth J. Wright of 1649 Ruth street was the dinner guest of Miss Hazel Anderson of 320 Cedar street Wednesday evening.

Mr. James Wilson, one of the employees of the county and road improvement, has leased Dr. Wilkinson's house at 1635 Ruth street, and with his family have taken possession.

Mrs. H. Boyer of Los Angeles spent the week end in North Glendale where she was the house guest of her daughter, Mrs. A. G. Williams of 1690 Stocker street.

Mrs. G. L. Kinnean of Rosemore Cottage, 1305 North Central avenue, leaves Friday morning for San Diego where she will remain at least two weeks visiting the fair and other interesting places. During the absence of Mrs. Kinnean Mrs. J. C. Denner will be the house guest of her brother, Dr. Hennelbaugh of West Thirtieth street, Los Angeles.

Mrs. Ida Van Strum of 1616 Ruth street expects to leave in a few days for her former home in Minnesota, stopping at San Francisco on the way back, to visit the exposition.

ADVERTISE GLENDALE

There is nothing that will advertise Glendale better to the outside world than to show to the outside world that the city is a desirable one in which to live, that her citizens are law-abiding, have good schools, good churches and enterprising business houses. Municipal ownership of water and light are attractive points to the man looking for a city in which to invest his money. Comparing Glendale with other cities in the Southland, we are bound to own that she ranks high, and we are proud to know that the city in which we reside is considered a progressive and up-to-date city.

A CAT FARM

MONTROSE CAT FANCIER HAS WORTHY AND UNIQUE AMBITION

Mrs. Helen Harmon of the Rosemary Cattery of Montrose and president of the Southern California Cat club, has an ideal toward which she is working that is indeed commendable. Mrs. Harmon wants to see a big cattery up in the mountains that will be an attraction for sightseers in Southern California and at the same time serve to advertise this locality. Anything that serves to draw the attention of worthy people to a community should be encouraged and Mrs. Harmon should have the co-operation of all in this section in attaining her object. She is working with the Southern California Cat club and wishes the club to have the honor should her ideal be attained.

This club is growing steadily and the people of Los Angeles and surrounding territory are becoming more and more interested in cat breeding. Mrs. N. N. Brown of 1431 Sycamore avenue, Glendale, who is also a cat fancier of renown, is secretary of the club and is working with the president to make the club of more benefit to all interested in this fascinating industry.

The club holds meetings the first Wednesday of every month at the homes of the members. Special lectures of interest to all who care to attend are arranged for each meeting. Several new members were received at Wednesday's meeting and other applications considered. The club is planning a kitten bazaar for the week of June 21 to 26.

MISS WRIGHT BRIDE-TO-BE

Miss Hazel Anderson of 320 Cedar street was hostess yesterday afternoon to a number of friends, complimenting with a surprise miscellaneous shower, Miss Ruby Wright of 1649 Ruth street, who is to be an April bride, her marriage to Mr. George Ransom Alston having been set for the latter part of this month.

Miss Wright had been told that this affair was in the celebration of the birthday of one of the guests and so was entirely innocent of any honor being shown her.

Bouquets of pink and white roses were used for decoration and the big fire place lined with pink crepe paper and covered with ivy and pepper boughs studded with rose buds suggested wedding decorations. A number of beautiful and useful gifts to gladden the heart of a bride were concealed in the fire place by a huge potted fern. When Miss Wright was asked to remove the fern and disclose the packages she was still innocent and not until she was told emphatically four or five times that the gifts were for her, did she realize that the affair was not a birthday party.

Refreshments were served and social chat was indulged in, the two young brides present being able to give the guest of honor many valuable hints as to the management of a husband.

Besides Miss Anderson and Miss Wright, there were present, Mrs. C. R. Norton, Mrs. A. E. Patch, Mrs. Cleo Hartley, Mrs. Hoyt Brown of Eagle Rock, Miss Ruth Wright, Miss Olive Quick, Miss Ella Steele and Mrs. George Alston.

MRS. VENABLE WINS

Winners in the big Times contest are announced in that paper this morning and we note with pleasure the name of Mrs. J. W. Venable of Glendale second in the list. Miss Minnie Lichner of Alhambra won the first prize, a Chalmers car, with 8,187,260 votes, while Mrs. Venable with 6,588,050 votes has the choice of a Chandler Six or Apperson Jack Rabbit car. Mrs. Venable will probably choose the Chandler Six. The prizes will be awarded next Saturday, April 17, at the Times office. Twelve automobiles, 32 exposition tours and $900 in gold were given away in this contest. It is indeed gratifying to have our Glendale candidate stand so near the head of the list and Mrs. Venable is deserving of congratulations for her earnest endeavor to win the prize.

MANY STRANGERS HERE

There are many strangers in Glendale these days. La Ramada reports that there was a party of twenty guests there on Monday, almost all of whom were from Canada, and came as guests of Mrs. Donald Barker of Los Angeles. On Tuesday a large party from the Maryland hotel of Pasadena took dinner at La Ramada and on Wednesday there was another large party consisting of members of the Biograph Motion Picture company.

SKIN GRAFTING

SANITARIUM WORKERS VOLUNTEER SKIN TO SAVE LIFE—SANITARIUM NOTES

A very successful case of skin-grafting recently was performed in the surgical ward of the Glendale Sanitarium upon twelve-year-old Lena Hill, a little girl who had been badly burned. More than eight square inches of skin were voluntarily offered and transferred from three of the lady nurses and four of the gentlemen workers. These were Misses Bolton, Simons and Hoffman, and Messrs. Lucas, Van Tassel, Nichols and Hilliard. Their missionary spirit is commendable. By means of this operation the child's life was saved.

Miss Bertha M. Orchard, matron of the Glendale Sanitarium, who has been connected with Seventh Day Adventist sanitariums in the East and West for many years, has found it necessary to retire for a much-needed rest. The sanitarium workers hope she may soon be connected again with sanitarium work.

The Glendale Sanitarium is conducting a question box in the parlors every Monday night at 6:45. One of the physicians of the institution is in charge and answers are given to any questions about health and correct methods of living. A general medical lecture is being given by one of the physicians each Thursday evening at 6:45. A dress demonstration or cooking class is being conducted each Tuesday afternoon at 2:30. A class in dietetics also is being held one evening each week at 7:30. These lectures, classes and demonstrations are open to the public and any of the institution's friends in Glendale who are interested are cordially invited to attend. The sanitarium is at present enjoying a full patronage and a good class of people.

WEST GLENDALE METHODISTS' ANNUAL RECEPTION

This evening at 7:45 the doors of the West Glendale Methodist church will swing wide open to her members and friends for a good social evening and reception to the sixty five new members received during the past year which closes the first year of the pastorate of the Rev. H. Jackson Hartsell. All departments of the church have grown, and the members are enjoying the spirit of unity and Christian fellowship. The prayer meeting last night was the largest and best of all, and we want our friends to come and make merry with us tonight. A short program of songs and readings will be rendered, a good old housewarming, hand-shaking and welcoming will follow and light refreshments will be served. You are welcome, whoever you are. Come. The good time is yours for the coming.

HONOR MRS. BROWN

The Ladies Aid society of Congregational church, under the leadership of Mrs. R. G. Paine and Mrs. E. D. Yard, yesterday gave a surprise party at the church parlors for Mrs. W. W. Brown of Third and Orange streets, who leaves soon for Porterville, California, where she will make her future home.

Mrs. Yard inveigled Mrs. Brown over to the church with a view of doing a little work in one of the Sunday school rooms, and when they arrived, the ladies to the number of thirty, were awaiting them. The rooms were beautifully decorated for the occasion with Cecil Brunner and Mamma Cochet roses, all in pink. Tea and little pink frosted cakes were served and a very pleasant afternoon enjoyed. The ladies presented Mrs. Brown with a handsome shopping bag as a remembrance, and she was greatly surprised and delighted with the whole affair.

GARDEN TEA AND MUSICALS

Mrs. William Porter of 823 N. Brand Boulevard, North Glendale, will entertain with an elaborate garden tea and musicals for the Woman's Auxiliary of St. Mark's Episcopal church and their friends on Saturday afternoon.

A large number of friends including Bishop Johnson and wife are expected from Los Angeles. The large grounds surrounding Mrs. Porter's home are particularly beautiful at this time of year and a delightful time is assured all who attend. The reception committee will be Mrs. Porter and daughter, Mrs. Scott W. Johnson, Mrs. A. M. Parker, Mrs. Caleb Brown, Mrs. Freeman Kelley. Assisting at the tea table will be Mrs. S. A. Davis, Miss Ella Williams, Mrs. L. L. Elliott, Mrs. H. Faries, Mrs. J. L. Flint, Mrs. Peterson, Miss Mills, Miss Wells, Miss Read and Miss Mattie Belle Provolt.

DEATH OF PRESIDENT LINCOLN APRIL 14, 1865

Oh, well-remembered April day,
The stone of war just rolled away,
Ended the internecine strife.
And a new, resurrected life
Had sprung from Appomattox tree
Where noble generals Grant and Lee
Had signalled that the war should cease
And thrilled the world, "Let us have peace,"
And near the joyful time had come,
When soldiers could go marching home.

Though fifty years removed away
From that, our nation's darkest day,
How keenly memory doth recall
The awful gloom that like a pall
Fell on the people, stupefied.
And jointly men and women cried
As the last bulletin was read
That told "The President is dead."
And bravest, stoutest hearts scarce knew

Which way to turn, or what to do,
Oh, who dare lift the assassin hand
Against a president so grand,
With all a woman's tenderness,
With purpose high to serve and bless,
On whom the war placed awful strain
Whose prayer that peace should come again
Was constant. Mute lips whispered "Why
Must he, amid his triumphs, die?"
(Oh mention not the assassin's name)
Lincoln still lives in deathless fame.

Behold, how rapid disappears
The wounds and scars of those sad years.
How strive we to remove each scar,
Inflicted by the hand of war.
Oh God, whatever else may come—
(Of lurking dangers there are some)
To jeopardize our nation's life,
Save us from internecine strife,
And numbered may we ever be
With nations that remember thee.

PHILATHEA CLASS

The Philathea class of the First Methodist church had a very enjoyable dinner party at the home of Miss Helen Swartz of Broadway and Belmont streets on Monday evening. There were about fifteen of the class present with their teacher, Mrs. Anderson and a special guest, Miss Maude Soper.

The rooms were decorated in yellow and white, the tiny yellow wild violets being used on the table, making a very pretty setting for the six o'clock dinner. In the evening there was the regular meeting of the class with several speakers, followed by a social hour.

MUSICAL TREAT

Many Glendale people are looking forward with pleasure to the evenings of April 17 and 18, when the Los Angeles Symphony orchestra, with the Lyric club and the Ellis club, will give Beethoven's ninth symphony at Temple auditorium. This is the symphony written after the author became deaf and was never heard by him, though it is considered his best work by many. It is very difficult and has not been given more than once or twice before in the West. There are a number of Glendale people who are members of the Lyric club and of course are greatly interested in this great work.

BLUE BEAUTIES COMING

On April 18, Desmond's Blue Beauties will play the fast Glendale base ball team. A good game is expected for Glendale has a fast club and the Blue Beauties are considered the best club in Southern California, having several big leaguers on its line up. The game will be played on the Verdugo Park diamond. Following is the line up for the Beauties. Springman, c. f.; Palmer, 2 b.; E. Thompson, 1 b.; Goodman, s. s.; R. PROHIBITION MEETING TONIGHT

The Clarions, singers, entertainers and evangelists, will hold forth at the Intermediate school tonight, beginning at 7:30. This combination of prohibition workers consists of J. W. Huddelson, the giant bass who is 6 feet, 4½ inches tall and weighs 315 pounds. He has a voice in proportion to his size. His team mate, Prof. F. W. Lough, while not so large is full of force and vim. He is a member of the famous Council of 100, a member of the National Prohibition committee, singer, lecturer and author. For seven years he was at the head of the prohibition forces in Indiana.

There will be no admission charged to this entertainment. Everyone invited.

On account of the rebuilding of the front of the Intermediate school and the debris and nails scattered about, the front entrance will be closed this evening and only the west entrance will be used.

CONTINUING IN BUSINESS

I sincerely thank the public for the patronage that they gave the Glendale Dye Works during the lifetime of my deceased husband; and I also extend thanks for the many courtesies shown me since the time of his death.

To those who may not be familiar with my plans I will say that I am continuing in business, and all work will receive the same careful and prompt attention as in the past.

Again thanking you for past patronage and favor, I remain,

INDIANA'S OBJECT LESSON

The moral of the conviction of 27 of the leading citizens of Terre Haute, Indiana, including the mayor will, of course, be keenly appreciated by the Hoosier state, which now has to undergo a sort of publicity and advertising far from advantageous. This is the penalty that goes along with civic treason and with tampering with the process of balloting, a penalty that cannot be escaped. States with urban communities that are well governed and that have honest elections profit by the fact. When misrule and venality triumph in cities the fact is registered sooner or later at the state capital. Nor can it be otherwise. Hence the triumph for law and order in Terre Haute implies finer conditions in Indianapolis.

For the country at large the case and its outcome may serve the purpose of reminder that along with international and national aspects of contemporary politics there still loom problems of considerable magnitude which are strictly urban and local. With altered forms of city charters, with concentration of power in the hands of city managers and commissions and with concessions of home rule by legislatures or by constitutional conventions, urban government in the United States has taken strides of late which put it well on the way to efficient and less costly government. But the old spoils theory of party reward for party victory has not been given up in many communities; and no new or progressive form of government can of itself transform conditions unless manned with persons who sincerely believe in the merit system and who are above craft for party ends. Unfortunately signs abound that one of the political reactions that the United States seems to be undergoing now is to be an attack on the merit system of with threatened attendant restoration of narrow partisanship.

The Terre Haute case and its outcome show that judicial procedure is still to be depended on when it is given convincing facts for evidence. The difficulty often in getting convictions in bribery and conspiracy cases is in the disinclination of persons who have important evidence to produce it, lest later they meet with retaliation from the convicted official's friends.—Christian Science Monitor.

How many of us are ready to tell how our neighbor should conduct his business when we are not able to conduct our own business successfully?

GIRL PAYS DIME FOR HOMESTEAD

Probably the smallest homestead entry ever proved up was taken by Miss Serena Helen Blue, who recently went into the United States land office at Cass Lake, Minn., and paid the government ten cents for the deed. Her homestead, which is on Turtle lake in the same state, consists of a triangular point of land jutting into the lake, 189 feet long in its longest part and 38 feet wide in its widest part. The entire area of the homestead is eight-hundredths of an acre.

To comply with the homestead law and obtain patent to her lakeside land, Miss Blue built a log house 14x16 feet, and lived in it for 17 months. The ten cents paid in at the land office was the price fixed by the government for commuting the entry to cash. In consideration of the ten cents, she will not be required to complete the three years of residence on the land that would otherwise have been required.

The point of land which comprises the homestead joins the farm on which Miss Blue's family resides. The homestead extends between two lakes and is nine miles from Bemidji. Of the 3484 square feet comprised in it, the law required her to cultivate 218 square feet. Instead of merely meeting the requirements she grew crops on nearly half the area of the lot. The crops included tomatoes, cabbage and clover. The soil is sand loam with clay subsoil.

Miss Blue said that she moved into her log cabin June 6, 1913 and has lived there since, but she expects to rent it this summer as a summer home. She is also planning to build two or three more cottages soon.

The last thing that can be said of any nation is that it makes the lives of its children sad.—John Ruskin.

GRATITUDE

Wife—John, what do you think? A fortune teller today told me that I would have two husbands.

John—And what did she charge you for that?

Wife—She only charged me one dollar—

John (with much scornful accent)—Only?

Wife (easily)—But I gave her two.

MORALITY DRAMA ONCE MORE IN FASHION

The morality play was the first form of drama among Christian nations. These "moralities" were very much in vogue as late as the time of the Reformation. They were usually produced under the patronage of the bishop or abbot, and all ranks of society took part in their performances just as is now the case with the famous Passion Play of Oberammergau.

In these old moralities the forces of good and evil were applied to the every-day problems of life. The devil appeared in person. The deadly sins were personified and appropriately clothed. Greed, jealousy and covetousness and their greater and lesser brethren walked the stage and acted their parts. Against them were arrayed the saints and apostles, the Madonna and virtues. Often the play was an actual battle, vi et armis, between these forces.

Many Biblical and Apocryphal stories were dramatized in the moralities which were presented in the churches on feast and other holy days. This form of drama has lately seen a popular revival, "Everywoman," was a somewhat crude and sensational effort along this line.

"The Servant in the House" and "The Passing of the Fifth Floor Back" were more subtle and artistic as well as more effective in their teaching. "The Devil" was highly sensational, but not successful in conveying any moral lesson. The most recent morality to be staged is "The Devil, the Servant and the Man," in which the "Servant," typifying Christ, and the devil are brought into direct opposition. "The Devil, the Servant and the Man," with Charles L. Gill in the human character, will appear at Pantages in Los Angeles next week.

FOREST SERVICE

The following changes of importance have been made in the forest service:

Authority is given the secretary to grant leases for national forest land for periods not exceeding thirty years and in areas of not more than five acres each, to responsible persons or associations, for the construction of summer homes, hotels, stores or other structures needed for recreation or public convenience.

A provision authorizes the secretary to grant free use of earth, stone and timber to the navy department and the department or commission having charge of the construction of government railways and other government works in Alaska. No additional appropriation was made by congress for this purpose.

Authority is given the secretary to make investigations and tests of such foreign woods as may be of commercial importance to the industries of the United States. The work under this provision will be done at the forest products laboratory at Madison, Wis.

The sum of $50,000 is appropriated to enable the secretary to carry out an agreement with the state of Washington to effect an exchange of the state's scattered holdings within national forests for solid blocks of national forest land. This money is available as soon as the state shall have appropriated a like amount.

The $25,000 hitherto allowed for range investigations, which are concerned with the use of national forest lands for grazing, is increased by $5000. This increase is to provide for forest service investigations and tests on the Jornada range reserve in New Mexico and area outside national forest boundaries.

While there is a decrease of $100,000 in the item, "fighting and preventing forest fires in emergency," this does not mean that this work is to be abandoned or lessened. When the bill was under discussion the committee in charge held the opinion that the secretary of agriculture is authorized in cases of emergency to protect federal property from damage and therefore needs no specific authority. The act, however, does provide $100,000 for fire protection of forested watersheds of navigable streams, to be carried on in co-operation with any state or group of states and allows a fund of $150,000 for fighting and preventing forest fires and for other unforeseen emergencies.

INHUMANITY ON THE SEAS

A White Star liner reached port at New York in safety the other day. It had passed within fifteen miles of the Falaba, just as the latter was sending out wireless calls for help, but it had not drawn near. It continued on its way, and more than a hundred lives were snuffed out as the Falaba went down. Yet the second vessel was only obeying the orders of the Admiralty. Ships are forbidden to offer aid to other ships in distress, because by entering the zone of acute danger, they might in turn be sent to the bottom.

The Falaba was destroyed by a submarine under circumstances that, however disguised by diplomatic terms, and softened by excuses, was murder. It was destroyed in accord with instructions supposed to be based on the necessities of war, and no sufficient warning was given the victims. Their cargo had been condemned, and that they must perish with the ship was a circumstance too trivial to be considered under the bestial code of ethics that now rule the lanes of ocean traffic. The human mind is appalled in contemplation of such atrocity. Such minds, unless inflamed by the passions and hatreds of war, cannot conceive the possibility of conduct so gross and monstrous. It recognizes and yet cannot realize the truth; the horror of the truth paralyzes.

Only a short time ago wireless messages became possible. By the use of them, word could be flashed many miles in any direction. In times of stress, aid was summoned quickly, and the saving of life due to this wonderful thing, even in the few years it has been employed, hardly could be computed. No longer had the mariner to deem himself alone upon the deep. On every hand were friends, and these could be reached. No one thought of a time when they who heard the call, a symbol of mighty brotherhood of all the seven seas, would be afraid to answer.

So the war monster spreads its terror over the great waters, and the signal of final agony wastes itself in the spaces. No wonder that war is abominated and accursed of men.—Pasadena News.

Failure to raise the sunken submarine would be regretted. Charges are made that the vessel was known to be unfit for service. If this is true, there are people in authority who also are unfit for service.

The person who borrows trouble pays an enormous interest.
